30-50	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Sometimes gives meaning to marks as they draw and paint. Ascribes meanings to marks that they see in different places. Begins to see sounds from their own name in other words. 	Children use their phonic knowledge to write words in ways which match their spoken sounds. They also write some irregular common words. They write simple sentences which can be read by themselves and others. Some words are spelt correctly and others are phonetically plausible.
40-60	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Gives meaning to marks they make as they draw, write and paint. Begins to break the flow of speech into words. Continues a rhyming string. Hears and says the initial sounds in words. Segments the sounds in simple words and blend them together. Links sounds to letters, naming and sounding the letters of the alphabet. Uses some clearly identifiable letters to communicate meaning, representing some sounds correctly and in sequence. Writes own name and other things such as labels and captions. Attempts to write short sentences in meaningful contexts.

Composition: Text Structure	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Simple story maps are used to plan narratives and non-fiction text types are orally planned in simple sections. Sequenced simple sentences to form a short narrative with a start, middle and end are apparent. (Fairy Tales, Fantasy Worlds & Familiar Settings) Sentences are in chronological order to recount an event or experience. (Recounts & Information Texts) Instructions set out a process using numbers and clearly marked sections. Sentences start through use of time openers such as then, next, after and later etc. Some compound 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Written planning outlines the content of writing and is referenced to. Ability to write a sequenced short story with a clearly defined start, middle and end. (Adventure, Fantasy & Traditional) Sequenced instructions using modal verbs and numbers to order. Related ideas are grouped together in sections in non-fiction texts, which begins to develop into an awareness of paragraphs. (Non-chronological Reports, Recounts and Information Texts) Developing use of subordination (when, if, that or because) and secure coordination (or, 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Through the collection of ideas orally, planning is sequenced with a clear structure linked to the text type in developed story maps or under paragraph headings. Ability to write a generally well balanced 5 part narrative where the main conflict/problem is solved. (Adventure, Mystery and Familiar Settings) Endings of narratives are carefully thought out. Settings, characters and plot are developed through description. Consistent use of paragraphs in narrative and which link information together in non-fiction text types. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Produce carefully thought out plans that match finished independent pieces. Narratives (Historical, imaginary worlds and Dilemmas are well paced, with a build-up and complication that lead to a defined ending. Descriptions in narratives are made up of detail to help the reader gain a better understanding about the way the narrative is unfolding. Through character and setting. Characters are created with interaction to reveal feelings. A variety of sentences are used made up of phrases and different clause types. Paragraphs organise 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Planning takes account of the audience and purpose of the writing. Narratives (Significant authors, myths and stories from other cultures) effectively develop characters, settings and atmosphere through detailed description. Paragraphing is controlled to organise writing into different information or events. Evidence of the application of specific features to ensure a text types matches its intention. Causal and logical connectives are used in addition to time openers (however or therefore). Cohesion in paragraphs is built up through the 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The appropriate form and register are apparent for the text type. Main ideas in both fiction and non-fiction are sustained and developed logically. Planning uses paragraphs to structure the plot in narrative (Suspense, flashbacks and quest) showing changes in time, place and events. In non-fiction (biographies, newspapers, persuasions and arguments) paragraphs organise information logically. Cohesion across paragraphs is clear using repetition of a word or phrase, adverbials (on the other

Explains the features/differences of instructions, information texts and recounts, within English books or orally in discussion. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Headings, subheadings, photographs and illustrations are used to aid presentation in reports, recounts and instructions. Conjunctions to express time, place and cause (when, before, after, while, so or because). Use of Adverbs (then, next, soon, therefore) or prepositions (before, after, during in, because of) within compound sentences. Evidence of an ability to independently use the features of the text types covered to this point to write for real purposes and audiences across the curriculum. Procedural texts make use of detailed information about how, where and when steps take place. Imperatives are used directly or indirectly. 	ideas around a theme or open with topic sentences in recounts, reports and explanations. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> In non-fiction texts the layout attempts to organise key elements through control of the specific features. Recounts have three clear parts made up of the setting, events in order and a concluding comment. Subordinating conjunctions are used between, at the beginning and within sentences. (We wore our wellies when we played in the puddles) Cohesion in sentences is achieved through using appropriate nouns and pronouns. Non chronological reports make controlled use of linking verbs to give coherence. (is, are, has, have and belong to) 	use of then, after, that, this or firstly or varying the length. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Adverbials of time (later), place (nearby) or number (secondly) are used to link ideas across paragraphs or tense choices may do this (he had seen her before) Short sentences are used to speed up action in narratives. Dialogue and reactions from other characters is used to add interest to a character. Writing shows evidence of the writer's viewpoint through comments about the characters and/or events. Controlled conclusions summarise non-fiction texts. (Procedural, explanation and persuasion) 	hand, in contrast or as a consequence) or ellipsis. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Controlled use of a wide range of organisational and presentational devices, such as headings, subheadings, columns, bullets and tables is evident. Newspaper reports make frequent use of words or phrases to link events in time, such as at the same time, as soon as or late in the afternoon) Uses a wide range of sentence starters to create specific effects or developed noun phrases to add detail. (participles, conversations/dialogue , adverbs or adjectives) Characters, dialogue and action advances narrative writing. Complex sentences are controlled to manipulate clauses for specific effects. Some sentences start with conjunctions although, despite, as, since or whenever.
Composition: Punctuation & Grammar	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Sentences are composed orally before writing down and written from memory. Writing is reread to check it makes sense. Capital letters and full stops are used with accuracy to demarcate a sentence. Capital letters for the names of people, places, days of the week and the personal pronoun "I" are becoming evident. Question or exclamation marks in 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Usually consistent use of past and present tenses within all forms of writing. (has/had, was/were) Use of the progressive form of verbs to mark actions in progress (she is drumming or he was shouting). Controlled use of statements, questions, exclamations or commands. Consistent use of full stops, capital letters, question marks and exclamation marks. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Consistent use of the first and third person. Use of the present perfect form of verbs instead of the past. (He has gone out to play instead of He went out to play) Accurate use of inverted commas for direct speech. Correct use of the possessive apostrophe. Evidence of improvements made through editing to make changes to grammar and 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Accurate tense and person is employed across different text types. Noun phrases are expanded by the addition of modifying adjectives, nouns and preposition phrases (the teacher becomes the strict maths teacher with curly hair). Fronted adverbials are evident with correct use of the comma (later that day, I heard the bad news) Verb inflections are 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Evidence of the varied use of pronouns to refer to the first, second and third person both singularly and in plural form.
